A young man, giving the name of R. B. Alexander, traveling agent for some foreign hone; spent Sun-day in the city, and, having nothing else to do, took on a few beers, engaged a back and started in for a ride. He was informed by the colored driver of the vehicle—George williams—that it would cost him fifty cents an hour to ride, or fifty cents for a ride of less than an hour. The back called at a saloon where Alexander took a drink, and then drove to a house on Winchester stres The hackman demanded pay for the time he had already served Alexander, but the latter told him he would pay the entire bill when he called in the evening. The hackman called, but sooner than Alexander requested, and was sent away. He went away, but in-stead of waiting till the hour appointed he went in search of a policemen, finding Patrolman Butler, related ircumstance and called upon Butler to him in collecting the fifty cents hack hite. Butler went to the house where he found Alexander quietly reclining on a sofa in the parlor, entertaining some ladies with some amusing sleight-of-hand pastimer. Butler went up to another gentleman sitting in the parlor and ordered him to pay the hackman or he would arrest him. Alexander heard the order and rising to his feet told Butler that he was the party he wanted, and explained the arrangement he had made with the hackman, but Butler was not satisfied, the backman, but Eddler was not satisfied, and forthwith made an effort to arrest Alexander, who resisted, declaring that he had done nothing to be arrested for. Butler persisted, calling on another party present to assist bim. A rough and-tumble fight ensued, during which Alexander's right hand and arm was painfully lacerated by driving it through a window page—the blow being simed at Butler. The two arasilants finally succeeded in overpowering Alexander, and by placing the "nippers" on his wounded arm he was conducted to the stationhouse, where he was conducted to the stationhouse, where he sgain became ungovernable, manifest-ing his indignation at being arrested and put in such humiliating position without cause. This is the story as gathered from the testi-mony of Butler himself and the immates of the house. Alexander was represented by Attorney Daval, who dwelt upon the indis-cretion of the officer. The Court took the view that the officer exceeded his authority in going to make an arrest on the complaint made by the hackman unless it was clearly apparent that the man was trying to "beat" him out of his fare. But when Butler aphim out of his fare. But when Buller approached Alexander the latter should have submitted to arrest, and let the question of right or wrong-doing on the part of the officer be determined before the court. "Then," said the Court, 'I should have promptly discharged Mr. Alexander and held Officer But. 206x523 feet, $60.

ler to account for making such an unwaranted arrest." The Court further remarked I that Mr. Alexander would have to pay a fine of $5 for resisting the officer and being disorderly at the stationhouse. Mr. Alexander's attorney expressed the determination to prosecute the officer for making an illegal arrest.

The County Asylam for the Poor-Additional Buildings Soon to be Erected for Lunatics.

The committee to whom was referred the matter of an insane department for the Shelby county asylum for the poor, and for have little trouble in scratching out the plaster, removing the brick- and escaping, if they were left bare. The contemplated building is to be temporary, as it is expected the Legislature will make an appropriation of at least $250 000 in the near future for a State insane asylum, to be located in insane saylum, to be located in WEST TENNESSEE. A former scheme, some time ago, to do this failed, it is stated, on account of the desire of each one of the three committeemen to have it located in his own particular county, though why such a d sire should exist can-not be readily understood. Those who have anything at all to say of the matter here are decidedly against having it built in Sheiby county. As sanitary arrangements are perhaps more necessary about a place where lunatics are kep; than about any other public building, peculiar surroundings are re-quired. A good leal of water-power and fa-culities for drainage are required among other things, and for these reasons the site of the asylum will be by no means easy to seect. Haf a dezen places are spoken of.

A VISIT TO THE POORHOUSE was made Sunday by an APPEAL reporter who found 148 inmates confined there, portion and arrangement reported a short time since was observed in all the departments. Dr. Duncesn states that he has more than the usual trouble in making a diagnosis of a case, as usually he has no bear. diagnosis of a case, as usually he has no basis to go on. The poor crestures sent him are picked up at odd places, and it is difficult to obtain the least information of their former life or the causes which led up to their insanity, without which they must, to a great extent, be treated by guess until something is learned by experience. Several new cases have lately been added, among them a young white woman who will soon become a mother. She was a servant girl in the family of a gentle man who lives on Union street, and it is said her present condition is the rocult of INTIMACY WITH A NEGRO. She succeeding in concessing her state of health from her employers for some time, but finally became unable to perform her ac-customed duties and made a confession. She had no money, and as she was unable to earn a living, was obliged to accept rublic hospi-tality. The woman is, perhap, twenty-five years of age, and has a homely but not a bad face. She does not seem to be crushed with shame before those who, she krow, are aware of the cau-e of her residence there. A great many children are born at the poorhouse to mothers lodged there after they become incapacitated for work by reason of their condition, but this is said to be the first case in years of this peculiar character. iar character.

ANOTHER CUSTOMER claims to be 118 years old. He was once powerful darky, over six feet tall, and has a long white beard reaching nearly to his waist, which gives him quite a patriarchal appearance. He caunot stand erect, but Yet it is said he can lift a greater number of pourds than say other inmate of the asylum. He talks glibly and with a better secent than is usual with the old-time Southern darky. When the reporter asked him his name he replied, "Old Mes."

"Where did you come from?"
"In my young days I lived in South Carolins, but went to Ogiethorps county, Ga., with my master, and when he came here I came with him. He settled about half way between Memphis and Ligrange, in the woods. The whole family is dead now; I am left all slone." "And you say you are 118 years old?" "About that," he replied with a glow of pride, as if he had at least one thing to be proud of—that

"Did you see the stars fall?" "You were twenty years old in 1812, and it is now 1883. That makes you ninety one years old. How is it you say you are 118?" "But, bo s, that is what I am," said old felt this, his last claim to respect slipping away from him, that the figures were falsified to suit his fancy, and he was left alone in his glory.

One of the most pitiful of all the sights in the asylum was revealed when the door of a little room in the ell was thrown open, die losing two figures-a WOMAN SOFTLY WEFPING. anding by the bedside of a living skeleto George Fietcher and his wife. Fietcher is the same who was shot by the worthless young scoundrel Will Kennedy about eight eeks ago. The wound made by the baile thich penetrated the back near the spine, healed over, and nothing can be seen but a small blue spot. Fletcher is a large, power-lul man, but his cheeks are now sunken and nollow and his limbs are nothing but skin and bone. He is slowly improving, though his ultimate recovery is by no means certain

There was something in the atmosphere landay that made the lunatics perfectly wild, and the most fearful conglomeration of ounds came from the insane ward. "Miss tempered and refused to be pacified. A tor-rent of the vilest language streamed from het thin and wicked mouth. Another old lady imagined that she had a whole month? washing to do for a hotel, and began filling a tub with water by cupfuls. NEW ORLEANS, August 1, 1883. TO THE PUBLIC! Investigate for Yourselves!

a wilful and malicious falsehood in regard to the character of The Louisiana State Lottery Com-pany, the following facts are given to the public to prove his statement, that we are engaged in a audulent business, to be false and untrue: Amount of prices paid by The Louisiana State ry Company from January 1, 1879, to presen sublic to the officers of the above-named corporations, and for our legality and standing to the Mayor and Officers of the City of New Orleans, to the State authorities of Louisians, and also to the U.S. Officials of Louisians. We claim to be legal honest and correct in all our transactions, as much so as any business in the country. Our standing is conceded by all who will investigate and our stock has for years been sold at our Board of Brokers, and owned by many of our bes rn and re-pected citizens.
